BIO

Patrick Powell has spent over 25 years in the world of information and computer technology as an industry Thought Leader in several fortune 100 companies. For over ¼ of a century Pat has been focused and enslaved by tangible and measurable facts and deliverables. It was that deep history with logic and facts why some now find it peculiar that Pat is now deeply connected to the spiritual world, which in contrast to his chosen profession cannot as of yet be measured by current technology and methods.

In the past Pat's universe was simply; you are born once and then you die a final death; no coming back. There was no God in Pat's universe only a world full of cowards too afraid of the finality of death. In Pat's universe there was no time for nonsense such as people who claimed to be able to speak to the dead, or people who made ridiculous claims that they had access to some otherworldly energy or different levels of existence.

But now Pat's views could not be any further from his previously long held beliefs. Pat has now embraced the reality that not all things can be described by our current level of knowledge. These things that escape current scientific description are now called supernatural; based solely upon present day man's ignorance.

Pat has now demonstrated significant, reproducible abilities that some would refer to as supernatural. These abilities have been documented in his two books which chronicle his journey all the while learning and perfecting his abilities.

Pat spends his time as a professional speaker and writer, and works with people in need energetically.

Current Titles Books

Still Nothing

During the writing of his first book Pat came to realize and recall that he had an incredible connection to the spirit world, a connection based upon a multitude of paranormal events that he discarded, rationalized away, and buried deep within the depth of his subconscious. When Pat began writing his book, the book took an unanticipated turn. Patrick began to channel and have a discussion with 'god' regarding the origin and nature of 'everything'. Pat then added that description into his book "Still Nothing."

To his surprise and amazement one of the readers of "Still Nothing" brought the book with him on a 'mediation tour' on the other side of the world, and visited some of the most ancient temples on the planet, the Doi Suthep Temple in Chiang Mai Thailand, the Monastery in Canggu Bali, and the Namche Temple in Nepal.

The reader discussed Pat's descriptions of the origins of the universe, our relationship with spirit, and the origin and the nature of spirit. To the readers' shock the monks stated that "Still Nothing's" description of 'everything' was a more modern description of their own ancient beliefs. The monks then proceeded to add Still Nothing to their Library and currently use it as a teaching aid.

The Great Book of Existence

Pat's latest book, The Great Book of Existence goes even further. Since the writing of Still Nothing, Pat has performed several successful experiments involving dozens of individuals with astral travel, also known in the scientific world as Remote viewing.

Pat has also worked with dozens of other individuals with healing; he has had incredibly successful results working with people with a wide variety of ailments; everything from Cancer patients, Chromosomes, Carpal tunnel, plus a wide assortment of more mundane medical issues. During all of these types of encounters Patrick saved the emails from the individuals and placed them within The Great Book of Existence.

In the second part of The Great Book of Existence, Pat answers what really is this 'god' thing? What is our relationship with this god thing, and most importantly Pat answers the oldest question that has plagued both sinners and saints, people with faith and people without faith. Why, if there is a god, why does he allow human suffering to continue?

Tom Alexander * Sports Daily

When Patrick Powell suggested we conduct an experiment, I was certainly eager to try, but I had my doubts. Those doubts came from a life of seeing hoaxes perpetrated by snake oil salesman who claim they can travel across centuries without leaving their den, or by nice, well meaning people who give it the old college try but come up short. Patrick Powell is different. In a brief sentence * Something happened.
